HARKESHAV AYURVEDA

Harkeshav Ayurveda is a trusted name in holistic wellness, blending ancient Ayurvedic wisdom with modern science to deliver natural, effective solutions for health and beauty

Herbalism is a
Traditional medical method in which Plants and part of Plants with medicinal property
are used for healing.

Ayurveda Is A Sanskrit Word That Means The Science Of Life.

It is an ancient art of healing that has been practiced continuously throughout India for 5,000 years. Ayurveda is probably the oldest authentically recorded healing science in existence today, incorporating many philosophical systems and the integration of body, mind and consciousness. Ayurveda seeks to understand and correct imbalance and restore the innate intelligence and harmony of the person. It gives us the insight to understand individual constitution and to create balance within and around us.

According to Ayurveda each person is unique, a combination of physical, mental and emotional characteristics which is his or her constitution. Example of some of these stresses are: one's emotional state, diet and daily food choice, seasons and weather, physical trauma, job and family relationships. Once we understand that these factors can cause an imbalance in our constitution we have a choice to take appropriate actions to nullify or minimize their effects or eliminate the cause. Balance is the natural order; imbalance is disorder. Health is order; disease is disorder. Within the body there is a constant interaction between order and disorder. Once one understands the nature and structure of disorder, one can reestablish order. Ayurveda identifies three basic types of energy or functional

Principals which are present in everybody and everything. There are no single words in English to describe these types of energy, so we use the Sanskrit words vata, pitta and kapha. Energy to create movement of fluids and nutrients to the cells of the body, enabling it to function. There is also energy needed to metabolize the nutrients in the cell and energy is needed to lubricate and maintain cellular structure. Vata is the energy of movement, pitta is the energy of digestion and metabolism, and kapha is the energy of lubrication and structure. All people have vata, pitta and kapha but one is usually primary, one secondary and the third least prominent. Disease in Ayurveda is viewed as the lack of proper cellular function because of an excess or deficiency of vata, pitta or kapha and/or the presence of toxins. In Ayurveda body, mind and consciousness work together to maintain the balance. They are simply viewed as different facets of one's being.

LATE SHRI HARKESH RAM DHIMAN (1899 – 1996)

Late Shri Harkesh Ram Dhiman was born in the village of Rasidpur, District Ambala, Haryana. From the very beginning of his life, he devoted himself to serving society. In an era when access to educated doctors was scarce, he emerged as the community's Native Vaidh (traditional healer).

During those times, people relied heavily on home remedies to treat their ailments, and Shri Harkesh Ram Dhiman became a trusted figure for advice and treatment. Villagers would approach him to seek guidance on remedies, and he generously shared his knowledge to alleviate their suffering.

He received invaluable support in his social service from his younger brother, Late Shri Sunder Ram Dhiman, who also treated patients free of charge. Together, they earned widespread praise across the region for their selfless contributions to society.

In honor of Shri Harkesh Ram Dhiman, his grandson, Mohan Dhiman, established the Harkeshav Ayurveda Company associated with son Naveen Dhiman. Today, the company proudly carries forward his legacy, producing approximately 350 high-quality Ayurvedic products. These products are not only supplied across various states in India but are also in the process of being exported internationally.

The traditional remedies and indigenous knowledge once utilized by Shri Harkesh Ram Dhiman have now been modernized and incorporated into these Ayurvedic medicines, making them accessible to a larger audience. Through these efforts, his vision of providing effective, natural treatments continues to thrive, ensuring that his contributions to society live on.
